WCI is committed to manufacturing processes and materials that control and minimize risks to our employees and the environment. WCI adheres to Federal, State, and local laws, codes, ordinances and regulations to prevent harm to the public health and welfare, and to preserve our natural resources. We continually invest in our manufacturing facilities to reduce material waste, energy consumption, and improve our product quality.

WCI's people are committed to producing the highest quality products. We train our employees in state of art manufacturing techniques and processes. We believe that the best people produce the best product. The attention to detail is evident in the product you receive -- it is their signature.

Materials

WCI's approach to product design and development is to explore and evaluate the use of sustainable materials and to incorporate them in our product wherever possible. This is part of our commitment to continuous process and product improvement.

Safety

WCI's Compliance Awareness Program maintains and educates all employees in proper procedures and methods for all government regulatory requirements.

We at WCI are proud of our record of meeting and exceeding standards set by Federal, State, and local codes. It is our desire to continue to supply our customers with the highest quality product manufactured in a safe and environmentally sensitive manner.
